General Remarks.

TUITION, FIVE MONTHS TERM, IN ADVANCE.

Freshman Class.....	$30 00
Sophomore ".....	30 00
Junior ".....	35 00
Senior ".....	35 00
Contingent Fee, in all Classes.....	5 00
Laboratory Fee, for Classes in Physical Science.....	2 00
Boarding, per week.....	3 50 to 5 00

REMARKS ON EXPENSES.

Tuition Fees are never refunded.

Students entering within three weeks of the opening are charged for the full term.

CLUB BOARDING

Is extensively practised, and saves about half the expenses of boarding. Students wishing to enter a Club furnish their own bedding and rent a room near some family with whom they can have their cooking done. Large clubs have their own cook.

SUGGESTIONS TO OUR PATRONS.

If possible, every student should enter the institution the first day of the Fall Term. All new classes are organized the first of that term, and those entering later must make their chances in the classes already organized. Minors should never be left entirely to their own selection of boarding house nor of studies; nor should they ever be allowed to open accounts in the stores. A full and regular course of study has immense advantages over all irregular courses.

BOARDING.

Students board with private families. The very best citizens of the town open their doors to boarders, placing generally but two students in a room.

FACILITIES.

Literary Societies, Libraries, Daily Drill by all the Professors, Practical Instruction, such as fits scholars for active usefulness rather than literary leisure, are some of the advantages here afforded. The town is eminently healthy, while the moral influences thrown around the student are of incalculable service. A daily prayer meeting, held by the theological students, is open to all the matriculants of the University. The leading men of the community are, all of them, active members of some church.

ELECTIVE COURSES.

Several courses of Elective Studies are provided for, as follows:
 Selections from the Collegiate Course and Modern Languages.
 Selections from the Collegiate Course and the full Theological Course.
 Selections from the Collegiate Course and the full Commercial Course.
 At the same time, it will be remembered that the regular course has great advantages over any other.

COURSE OF ELECTIVE STUDIES.

Mental Philosophy: Hamilton, Kant, Reid, Bain, Porter, Aristotle.
 Logic: Hamilton, Aristotle, Mill.
 Ethics: The Bible, Seneca, Helvetius.
 Evidences of Christianity: Lardner, Chalmers, Butler.
 (Four of the above required.)
 Mathematics: Descriptive Geometry, Analytic Geometry (Howison's, Ray's Series), Calculus (Dif., Int. and Variations), Analytical Mechanics, Astronomy.

Natural Science: Proficiency in some one is preferred.
Classics: Eclogues, Georgics, Arts of Poetry, Oration for Milo, Isocrates, Livy or one modern language mastered so as to speak and write it.
Examination Fee, $15.
Diploma Fee, $5.

GRADING.

Each student is furnished with a monthly statement of his grading, signed by the Grading Clerk, J. C. Hardin, which he is expected to mail his parents or guardian.

RAILROAD FACILITIES.

Lebanon is accessible by two daily trains from Nashville.

DISCIPLINE.

No code of laws is used. Each student is expected to know his lessons, and behave himself like a gentleman. Those who will not do this are not wanted here.

Commercial School.

Faculty.

B. W. McDONNOLD, D.D., LL.D.,
President.

D. S. BODENHAMER, A.M.,
Professor of Book-keeping and Commercial Correspondence.

H. T. NORMAN,
Professor of Penmanship, Geography and History.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Book-Keeping (Bryant and Stratton's complete course).	Commercial Law.
Penmanship (Spencer's Manual).	Business and Legal Forms, and Mercantile Correspondence (Crittenden).
Commercial Arithmetic (Crittenden).	Success in Business (Freedly).
Lectures on Commercial Law, on the National Banking System, on Private Banks and the usages of Business Corporations.

Plan of Instruction.—The afternoon of each day will be devoted to the School. The exercises of each class will be under the personal supervision of its Professor. Values will be represented by slips of paper. Commission, wholesale and retail houses will be opened, various business corporations formed, and the details of actual business life entered into and practically discussed, thus preparing the student for any emergency that may arise.

Fees.—For those who are not students of the University, $30. Contingent fee, $5. For those who are students, $10 extra.

Diploma.—Those satisfactorily completing the course will be awarded by the Trustees of the University a certificate as Regular Accountants, and facilities will thus be presented for acquiring immediate and lucrative employment.

COURSE OF STUDY.

JUNIOR YEAR.

FIRST SESSION.

Algebra (Todhunter or Bourdon).
Geometry (Chauvenet).
Descriptive Geometry (Warren).
Road Engineering.
Elementary Physics (Atkinson's Ganot).

SECOND SESSION.

Plane and Spherical Trigonometry (Chauvenet).
Land Surveying (Gillespie).
Shades, Shadows and Perspective (Warren).
Analytic Geometry (Howison, Ray's Series).
Field Engineering (Henck.)

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST SESSION.

Differential and Integral Calculus (Olney).
Mechanics (Coxe's Weisbach).
Higher Surveying and Leveling.
Civil Engineering (Rankine).
Geology (Dana).

SECOND SESSION.

Astronomy (Norton).
Theory of Strains in Girders (Stoney and Merrill).
Bridge Constructing (Working Drawings, Models and Lectures).
Machines (Rankine, Auchincloss).
Botany (Wood). Optional.

Drawing—Topographical, Geometrical, Mechanical, Isometrical and Architectural, with Shading and Tinting—throughout the course.

Field Work—Adjustment and use of Surveying Instruments, and extensive practice in sketching Topography.

The Degree of Civil Engineer will be conferred upon those who complete the course prescribed above.

Tuition, $50 per session of five months, in advance.

Board, from $3.50 to $5.00 per week.

Students will give their attendance at the school from 2 to 5 o'clock P.M.

The first session commences September 2, 1872.

Application for admission or information should be made to Prof. A. H. Buchanan, Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tennessee.

OBJECTS OF THE THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL.

It is the desire of those in charge of the Theological Department to contribute, as far as they may be able, towards furnishing to the Church not only an intelligent but a practical ministry. The text-books are considered practical. Practical habits are encouraged among the young men here. By preaching in vacant congregations around, and laboring in Sunday-schools in destitute neighborhoods, they make themselves useful and acquire such habits as must greatly increase their usefulness hereafter. A ministry so educated can not fail to be a blessing to the Church.

We do not believe that the highest degree of intellectual culture has any tendency to impair, but rather to improve, the spirituality of religion, when the culture is connected with practical religious subjects.

Provisions will be made for three full recitations each day, conducted by the Professor, with the aid of the President. In connection with these are the weekly lectures of Dr. Anderson. The course of studies will embrace the Greek and Hebrew Scriptures, Systematic Theology, Hebrew and Christian Antiquities, Evidences of Christianity, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Analogy of Natural and Revealed Religion, Ecclesiastical History, Pulpit Elocution and Pastoral Theology. This course of studies will be connected with Lectures upon the several subjects of study, or collateral subjects.

The Trustees and Faculty have agreed upon a concurrent course of Literature, Science and Theology, by which a student may carry forward some of the regular College studies most necessary as a preparation for the Ministry in connection with his Theological studies. By pursuing this course, he may graduate as a Bachelor in Theology at the expiration of four years from the time of his entrance into the Freshman Class. This arrangement is made, however, with the understanding that the last of the four years shall be devoted wholly to Theological studies.

Students who are prepared at once to enter successfully upon the study of the Greek and Hebrew Scriptures can complete the Theological course in two years. Provision will also be made for those whose circumstances compel them to a shorter course.

The Library of the late Dr. Murdock, of Yale College, which has been liberally donated to the Theological Department here, is an invaluable acquisition. It is hoped, too, that in a year or two, with the aid of the Finley bequest and the co-operation of liberal men, this Department may be fully organized. Three Professorships have been nominally established by the Board under the direction of the General Assembly—the Ewing Professorship of Systematic Theology, the Murdock Professorship of Ecclesiastical History, and the Finley Professorship of Pastoral Theology. The two former have as yet no productive endowment. Judge Ewing donated property in the city of Chicago, which will be valuable, but has thus far yielded nothing. The consideration in the establishment of the Murdock Professorship was the library of Dr. Murdock, whose honored name the Professorship bears. The Finley Professorship is based upon a productive capital, not sufficient, however, to meet the expenses of the Professorship. It will be seen, therefore, that we labor under great disadvantages from want of ability to carry forward the work of the Theological Department as we would desire. With more than fifty young men preparing for the ministry, the full organization and vigorous support of this Department ought to be considered an absolute necessity. Will not the Church accept this earnest statement, and meet it practically? It is proper to add, however, that under all our disadvantages we are doing something. We have a regular Theological class and are carrying forward the work of the Theological Department, we trust to the satisfaction of all concerned. It is hoped that a still more liberal provision can be made for instruction in this Department for the following year. Camp Blake was a noble conception, and is working well.

THE BALL ENDOWMENT.

Over one hundred thousand dollars have been subscribed to this fund. Sickness in Col. Ball's family has made it necessary to secure other agents, who will prosecute the work vigorously. The whole fund, half a million, can be raised before another commencement.

Camp Blake.

This Institution was organized in September, 1868, and has been in successful operation ever since.

TERMS.

1. A contingent fee of $10 is required to be paid in advance, not to be refunded in any case.

2. No one is admitted until he has furnished evidence that he is a candidate for the Ministry, in the care of some Presbytery in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

3. A room is furnished with a bunk and chairs and a table. The students furnish his own wood, washing, lights, bedding and whatever else he may need. Of course no charge is made for board. All eat at the same table, where every appliance is provided.

4. Candidates for the Ministry pay no tuition; but before entering College each one is required to pay five dollars contingent tax.

The whole expenses of boarding in Camp Blake, including both contingent taxes and books, per session, need not exceed fifty dollars, and by very rigid economy may be considerably less.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Money and provisions for Camp Blake may be sent to Hon. Nathan Green, Lebanon, Tennessee.

FREE TUITION.

Candidates for the Ministry are taught gratuitously. This favor is extended on the faith of the Church, and with the full expectation that the Institution will be furnished with money enough to enable it to continue this policy. In obedience to a heavy pressure from the churches, the Trustees have required a refunding bond, binding candidates to refund to the Institution or to the Church all the tuition or boarding given them, in case they should ever abandon, voluntarily, the ministry as a calling.

Course of Study.

JUNIOR CLASS.

Caruthers's History of a Law Suit; Stephens's Pleading; Kent's Commentaries; Greenleaf's Evidence, 1st Vol.

SENIOR CLASS.

Barton's Suit in Equity; Story's Equity Jurisprudence; Bishop's Criminal Law; Parsons on Contracts.

This course is very imperfect; but is so necessarily. It is impossible to become a good lawyer during the short time young men can be induced to remain in any school of Law.

All that can be done is to give them a decent preparation for a license, and fit them respectably for beginning the practice.

COURSE CONDENSED.

After much study and reflection, the Faculty and Trustees have determined to condense the course so as to enable gentlemen to be graduated in two sessions of five months each.

It will be seen that we now have only two classes, the Junior and the Senior. Many books of importance are of course left out, and those only retained which are deemed indispensable. Yet those which are in the course, if well studied and understood, will make any man a good lawyer. Perhaps it may be truly said that law books, more than any others, are filled with repetitions, the principles of law being comparatively few.

The fifteen volumes which are now embraced in the course discuss every subject of importance known to the law. The student, therefore, who is attentive will find himself at the end of the ten months master of sufficient elements on every legal topic to enable him to enter upon his professional life.

We frankly state here the reasons which have induced us to make the change:

1. Most of the Law Schools in the United States have shortened the time thus within which students may be graduated.

2. But few young men who have attended the school since the war have been able to remain longer than ten months. Nearly three-fourths of those who have entered our Junior Class upon the old system of fifteen months have fallen off before reaching the Senior Class.

3. The condition of the country since the late civil war seems to demand that there should be a change. Our young men, for the most part, are limited in their means. They are really not able to remain here on expenses longer than is absolutely necessary. And, further, their exigencies require that they should go to work for themselves as soon as possible.

This they will do whether we graduate them or not. They will apply to the Judges, who will feel bound to license them after very poor preparation and a few months of unsatisfactory reading in some law-office. We have thought it better that we should abridge our course somewhat, and thus reduce the time and lessen the expenses, so as to induce more of them to enter the school, where they can be thoroughly drilled in the practice and instructed in the elements at least for ten months.

4. As has been said heretofore, all we can do is to prepare the student for a license. It may be objected that the ten months is too short for even that. We may be told that it once required an apprenticeship of seven years before our English ancestor's would allow the attorney to engage in the practice. That may have been necessary then, but is not now. Anciently the law was diffused through many books, most of which were reports. Years of labor and observation in the office and in the Courts were necessary to give the beginners any proper notion of the law itself and the practice.

But now Blackstone, Kent, Story, Greenleaf and others have collected the principles of jurisprudence from the vast number of reports and have arranged, digested and reduced them to system, and have brought them within a small compass. They have done the work for us which the British student formerly had to do himself.

It is, certainly, therefore, not hazarding too much to say that the modern diligent student can accomplish more in one year than the ancient student could in seven, just as the modern railroad train can travel faster in one day than our forefathers could have gone with their road wagons in ten days.

We would be glad if we could induce young men to remain at the School two years or longer, but we can not.

RESIDENT GRADUATES.

Gentlemen who may pass through our course and receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws are invited to remain another year free of charge.

LICENSE TO PRACTISE.

The Faculty of this Law School are authorized by law to confer license to practise. This will be given to all who receive diplomas, without any extra fee.

MOOT COURTS.

Every student is drilled in the forms of pleading and practice. Moot Courts are established as part of the regular course. In these all are required to participate. Cases are made out and given to the disputants, who are required to bring suit in whatever court the matter may be cognizable. The Professors sit as judges and the students, by turn, act as jurors, clerks and sheriffs. The causes are argued—often with great cogency and interest—and the jury charged, the verdict rendered and judgments entered exactly as in real courts.

LECTURES.

We do not teach by lectures. A lesson is assigned, and each student is examined every day upon the text. The Law is in the text books, and it is better to require the student to tell what it is than for the Professor to announce it in a lecture. Still, all difficulties are removed and dark passages explained in the course of recitation.

WHAT WE TEACH.

We teach the Common Law, which is applicable alike in all the States except in Louisiana, and to some extent in that. The student who is educated here may therefore practise anywhere in the United States.

LITERARY QUALIFICATIONS.

No knowledge of Latin or Greek is required, nor any other special literary qualification, in order to enter the Law School.

TUITION FEE, ETC.

The fees per session of five months are as follows: tuition, $60.00; contingent, $5.00; diploma, $5.00—all to be paid in advance.

More law is now taught in each class than formerly, and consequently more labor is devolved on the Professor. Formerly the student paid one hundred and fifty dollars in the three sessions for tuition. Now he pays for two sessions one hundred and twenty dollars only, and saves five months boarding and other expenses.

BOOKS.

Students furnish their own books, which can be bought cheaper in Lebanon than elsewhere. The books in the Junior course can be obtained in Lebanon for forty-one dollars. The books in the Senior course will cost forty-five dollars.

SESSIONS.

There are two sessions. The Fall Session begins on the first Monday in September next and ends January 16th, 1873. The Spring Session begins January 20th and ends June 5th, 1873.

BOARDING.

Boarding in good families at from $3.50 to $5.00 per week.

OUR HISTORY AND PROSPECTS.

The Lebanon Law School was established in 1847 by Judge Abraham Caruthers. There were thirteen students the first term. As soon as the plan of instruction became generally known the numbers increased so rapidly that it became necessary to add another Professor, the Hon. Nathan Green. This was in 1848. Shortly after, the Hon. B. L. Ridley was added.

Under the guidance of these distinguished men, all of whom now rest from their labors, the institution prospered to a degree never equaled in the United States during so short an interval. The year before the war the number of students was more than two hundred.

Probably more than a thousand young men have pursued their legal studies here. Many fell during the late civil war. But many survived, and they are rapidly taking the high places of public trust throughout the land. Numbers of them are to-day Chancellors, Judges and Congressmen, and many are standing at the head of their profession all over the country. There is scarcely a town in the contiguous States that has not a representative from the Lebanon Law School. While there may be a few who do us no particular honor, yet we point with pride to the great mass of those who have been educated here. They are, to a great extent now, and as the years and their numbers increase, will continue to be, controlling minds in the country. It is hoped the School will not lose its usefulness under the present management. It is now on a good footing, with better prospects than at any time since the war. The students who now attend are noted for their good habits and earnest application. They come from the many different States, and form themselves into a band of brothers, each vying with the other in diligence and zeal. Being in classes together, they constitute a powerful stimulus to one another while here. When they leave and settle in the various parts of the country, each has scores of professional brethren whose future intercourse and correspondence in business may be highly beneficial and remunerative.

The town of Lebanon is famous for its morality, healthfulness and sociable hospitality. Students board in the best families, and are favorites with the citizens.

In view of the advantages offered here, we think we may safely invite gentlemen who have our profession in view to visit the Lebanon Law School.

Announcement.

The Medical Department of this University, located at Memphis, was reorganized under its original charter in 1868, and is now in successful operation.

The Medical College of Memphis became a branch of Cumberland University in July, 1871.

Its twentieth annual course of lectures will commence on the first Monday in October, 1872, and will close on the first of March, 1873.

This course will consist of four daily lectures in the different departments of Medicine and Surgery. On two days in each week there will be delivered, in addition, clinical lectures in the Wards of the City Hospital.

A distinctive feature of the method of instruction pursued in this institution is that, while the number of the daily lectures delivered is less than in many other colleges, the time appointed to each is sufficient to enable the Professors to question the students closely upon the subjects of the preceding lecture. The subjects taught are thereby deeply fixed in the memory of the student, and the expense of the "quiz" so necessary in other schools is avoided.

The course of Didactic lectures will cover the subjects of Descriptive and Surgical Anatomy, Physiology and Pathology, the Principles and Practice of Medicine and Surgery, Materia Medica and Therapeutics, Obstetrics and the Diseases of Women, Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Chemistry and Toxicology.

The Trustees have no hesitation in saying to those who are disposed to attend lectures in this School, that the course of instruction is as thorough and comprehensive as any in the United States.

In the wards of the City Hospital, no effort will be spared to qualify the student to apply at the bed-side the principles which have been taught in the lecture room.

FACTS WORTHY THE ATTENTION OF ALL WHO EXPECT TO BECOME STUDENTS OF MEDICINE.

The vast tides of emigration which are daily pouring across this continent from its Atlantic and Pacific shores are rapidly filling with people the great valley of the Mississippi.

The inducements offered to settlers, by the inviting cotton fields of this region, are greater than at any period of its history. An extensive and rapidly increasing population stands in need of educated physicians. Here is a great opening, and here will be a rich harvest for medical men.

In Memphis, which is the geographical and commercial centre of the West, the very best opportunities are afforded for studying its diseases.

Students who look forward to making their homes in the Mississippi valley will therefore find it an economy of both time and money to receive their education in Memphis.

COLLEGE BUILDING.

The College Building, which has been generously given to the Faculty by the City, is pleasantly situated on Front Street, overlooking and giving a fine view of the Mississippi river and shipping. Its location is eminently healthy and convenient to all parts of the city. These features, with its large, comfortable and convenient lecture rooms, make it all that is desirable for the purposes of a medical school.

MATERIA MEDICA.

The cabinet of Materia Medica belonging to this school is a very complete one, and furnishes for study a large collection of medicines of the finest quality. The plan of instruction in this branch, adopted by the Professor, is to select from the best drug houses, for exhibition to the class, specimens of medicines such as the physician may expect to meet with in the daily practice of his profession. The specimens usually found in cabinets are far superior to the commercial articles, and give the practitioner an erroneous idea of the value of the medicines furnished by the trade.

ANATOMY.

The facilities for studying Anatomy are being increased every year, partly by the labors of the Demonstrator and a competent Prosector who has been added to this chair, and partly by the purchase of additional models and preparations for illustration.

The opportunities offered for the study of Practical Anatomy are unsurpassed. The afternoons and evenings are devoted to dissection. The supply of material is abundant and cheap. The dissecting rooms are ample and well lighted, and the Demonstrator is present at the periods mentioned to give aid and instruction to the student.

CHEMISTRY.

The Chemical Laboratory, which was seriously damaged during the war, has, by the appropriation of a considerable sum of money, been refitted. It is now well supplied with all the necessary apparatus and appliances for thoroughly illustrating this branch of medicine. Chemistry as here taught is simple and practical in its character and especially adapted to the wants of the physician.

AURAL AND OPHTHALMIC SURGERY.

The peculiarly favorable opportunities of which Prof. Voorhies has availed himself in the British, French and German schools, have thoroughly qualified him for the instruction of students in the important advances which have lately been made in Otology and Ophthalmology. It will be his constant aim to make the lectures practical and comprehensive in every particular, employing every kind of scientific assistance for this purpose.

The use of the Ophthalmoscope and Otoscope will be taught in the course of clinical instruction.

CLINICAL MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

Recognizing the importance of combining Clinical with Didactic teaching, this school has availed itself of the facilities offered for clinical instruction in the wards of the City Hospital. In this ample field the student will enjoy opportunities for the study of Obstetrics, Medicine and Surgery. During the course of every session most of the important operations in Surgery are performed before the Class—including the ligation of arteries, amputations, the reduction of dislocations, methods of treating fractures, and the operation of lithotomy.

The most approved methods will here be taught of exploring the Bladder, the Rectum and the Uterus, and of treating the diseases to which these organs are liable.

The Medical advantages presented in this Hospital are not inferior to the Surgical. Students will see a great variety of acute disease, and will here be enabled to obtain a practical acquaintance with the use of the Thermometer in Fever and of the Stethoscope in diseases of the chest.

The College Dispensary, which is open daily, furnishes opportunities for studying Minor Surgery. Students will there be taught the art of dressing wounds, of bandaging and of writing prescriptions.

STATE STUDENTS.

In order to promote the cause of Medical Education, one meritorious student from each Congressional District in this State will be admitted to the course of lectures free of all charge except the Matriculation, Demonstrator's and Graduation fees.

Applicants for this appointment must communicate with the Dean upon the subject before the commencement of the session, and each applicant must present a letter of recommendation from the member of Congress from his district, setting forth his merit and circumstances.

ALUMNI.

By special agreement it has been provided that all the alumni of the Memphis Medical College—those who have been created from the earliest period of its history, as well as those who may become alumni in the future—shall be alumni of Cumberland University.

This opens to the graduate a wide range of pleasant associations, which should be cherished and which may be of great value to him in after life.

FEEES.

The fee for admission to the course of Lectures is sixty dollars—payable in variably in advance. The Matriculation fee is five dollars. The Graduating fee is thirty dollars. The Demonstrator's fee is ten dollars. The expense of the entire course, including graduation fee, is therefore one hundred and five dollars.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

This School requires of the candidate for graduation—

1. That he shall have attained the age of twenty-one years.
2. That he shall have been engaged for three years in the study of medicine, and during that time have attended two full courses of lectures, the last of which must be in this Institution. To fulfil this provision the student may read under the direction of a preceptor for one year, and then attend two courses of lectures; or, what in the estimation of the Faculty is equivalent to this, he may attend three regular courses of lectures.
3. That he shall have given faithful attention, for one session at least, to the subject of Practical Anatomy.
4. That he shall have written and presented an acceptable thesis upon some medical subject.
5. That he shall have passed a satisfactory examination upon all the branches of instruction taught in this school.

Respectable practitioners of four years standing will be allowed to graduate on attendance upon one course of lectures after having passed a satisfactory examination.

Good board can be obtained in the neighborhood of the College for twenty-five dollars per month.

Students desiring additional information to that found in this circular will please address

ALEXANDER ERSKINE, M.D.,
Dean of the Faculty.
